California Proposition 65 Compliance Statement

Proposition 65 is a California law that has been in effect since 1986 to promote clean drinking water and to require businesses to provide a clear and reasonable warning before exposing individuals to consumer products containing chemicals known to the state to cause cancer, birth defects, or other reproductive harm.

The law requires that no person in the course of doing business knowingly and intentionally expose an individual to a chemical known to the state of California to cause cancer or reproductive toxicity without first giving a clear and reasonable warning. An official list of these substances is published and periodically updated by OEHHA.

The list can be accessed at <https://oehha.ca.gov/proposition-65/proposition-65-list>

Stormtech has always been committed to providing high quality, safe products for our customers and has worked with our supply chain partners to implement a process to help ensure the purchase of raw materials that will meet Proposition 65 standards. Stormtech has also implemented numerous testing procedures to help ensure that all of our products comply with all North American textile standard requirements.

This is to certify that Stormtech products are compliant with the Proposition 65, and based on testing records do not contain any of the restricted substances, or chemicals at concentrations that would require a Proposition 65 warning label. Our products comply with California's Proposition 65 and no chemicals listed under Proposition 65 are intentionally added or known to exist in the aforementioned formulations above the limitations of safe harbor.

Stormtech certifies and guarantees that the above is true and correct.
